

A Motorcoach Guide to Monuments, Museums...and Beyond

This web page includes directions to several neighborhoods, major attractions, nearest Metrorail stops (METRO) and available parking for motorcoaches in Washington, D.C. For more information about Metrorail and connecting Metrobus routes, call 637-7000 or go to www.wmata.com. Addresses are followed by a “NW,” “SW,” “NE” or “SE” designation. The U.S. Capitol Building serves as the point at which the District is divided into these quadrants. The map that accompanies this text provides additional information.

Because conditions change from day to day, we will attempt to keep this information up to date. If you notice any discrepancy, please contact DDOT at (202) 671-2730 or by e-mail at rick.rybeck@dc.gov.

Event Routes

The District Department of Transportation (DDOT) has developed a plan to facilitate vehicular movement into, within, and out of the downtown. DDOT has identified 25 corridors (marked in red on the map) as primary routes into and out of the downtown from the Capital Beltway (I-495). DDOT has installed E-Route signs along these priority routes for easy identification by the motoring public and emergency authorities. Both Maryland and Virginia Departments of Transportation have also installed E-Route signs for regional consistency.

In the event of an emergency, instructions will be provided by radio about how to use the E Routes to expedite vehicular movement out of the downtown area while also avoiding hazardous areas. For example, if an evacuation is ordered, motorists in some locations will be directed North, East, and West on radial E-Routes while motorists in other locations will be directed South, East, and West on radial E-Routes.
